CHAPTER _____

An act to add and repeal Chapter 3.4 (commencing with Section 8261) of Division 1 of Title 2 of the Government Code, relating to youth.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL’S DIGEST

AB 46, Luz Rivas. California Youth Empowerment Act.

Existing law establishes various social services and programs to address the needs of young people in this state including the California Youth Leadership Project to support and promote civic engagement through scholarships to disconnected and disadvantaged youth.

This bill would create the California Youth Empowerment Act to address, among other issues, the growing need to engage youth directly with policymakers. The bill would establish the California Youth Empowerment Commission in state government consisting of 13 voting commissioners between 14 and 25 years of age and meeting specified requirements, with 11 members appointed by the Governor, one at-large member appointed by the Senate Committee on Rules, and one at-large member appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly, along with several ex officio, nonvoting members from various geographic regions of the state. The bill would establish the commission to be advisory in nature, for the main purpose of providing meaningful opportunities for civic engagement to improve the quality of life for California’s disconnected and disadvantaged youth. The bill would require the commission to conduct regular meetings, in accordance with specified timeframes and procedures, and, among other duties, formally advise and make recommendations to the Legislature, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Governor, on various legislative and fiscal issues affecting youth. The bill would also authorize the commission to draft and approve resolutions, draft model legislation, provide testimony during legislative committee meetings, conduct public hearings, and award prizes or direct grants to organizations.

The bill would require the Governor to appoint an executive director of the California Youth Empowerment Commission to assist the commission in carrying out its work, would authorize the commission to accept gifts and grants, and would create the Youth Commission Fund in the State Treasury, with moneys deposited in the fund available for expenditure, upon appropriation by the Legislature, to carry out the duties of the commission. The bill would require that its provisions be implemented only if funds are made available in the budget or through gifts and grants. The bill would require the Department of Finance to determine if sufficient funds have been provided and would require the department to publish notice of this determination on its website.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. The Legislature finds and declares all of the following:

(a) The needs and issues affecting youth are most accurately addressed by youth themselves.

(b) Young people in California have demonstrated their passion for the civic process and getting involved, as seen in the spike in voter turnout from the 2014 midterm elections, where 8 percent of California voters between 18 and 24 years of age voted, to the 2018 midterm elections, where 27.5 percent of California voters between 18 and 24 years of age voted.

(c) Young people have also shown their desire for change in social and public policy, as shown in advocacy efforts relating to gun reform, education, affordable housing, juvenile justice, health, jobs, and climate change.

(d) There are nearly 8,900,000 youths in California under 18 years of age as of the most recent data, compiled for 2019. Of those, an estimated 14,213 unaccompanied minors and youths between 18 and 24 years of age experience homelessness each year. Data shows that approximately 60,778 children are in the foster care system. In 2019, there were 43,181 arrests of California youth, and more than 30,000 of those arrests resulted in the detention of a young person in a juvenile hall. Youth who are homeless, in the juvenile justice system, or in foster care have limited opportunities to participate in the policy process that ultimately impacts their well-being.

(e) The COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated disparities among our youth, who are increasingly disconnected from peers, family, teachers, and policymakers. Homeless youth, incarcerated youth, foster youth, and youth with disabilities or preexisting conditions have a higher likelihood of being exposed to COVID-19 or experiencing significant disparities in accessing health care and receiving quality care. According to a report published by the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the proportion of emergency department visits from March 2020 to October 2020 related to mental health increased by 24 percent for children 5 to 11 years of age and spiked by 31 percent among adolescents 12 to 17 years of age compared to the same period of the previous year. Additionally, during the first 12 weeks of the pandemic, nearly one-half (44 percent) of young people 16 to 23 years of age, inclusive, applied for unemployment insurance, the highest rate of any age group. Thus, it is the intent of the Legislature to prioritize the needs and issues affecting youth to prevent irreversible short-term and long-term damage to their development and growth.

(f) The recent protests against state violence and systemic racism against Black communities has highlighted the profound underinvestment of social, health, and educational services and overinvestment in policing and incarceration of young Black, Indigenous, and people of color (BIPOC) and their communities. Government policies, institutional practices, and individual actions, both conscious and unconscious, have reinforced a system where BIPOC communities see dramatically increased rates of poverty, violence, policing, foster care, homelessness, multisystem involvement, substance use disorders, and other health disparities. Thus, it is the intent of the Legislature to ensure that all commissions, including the one established by this chapter, purposefully uplift and empower BIPOC individuals and other marginalized communities within both the commission's composition and its priorities.

(g) The government is designed to address input and participation from the people being served; however, youth under 18 years of age who cannot vote do not have a formal way to participate in the civic process.

(h) There is a growing need to engage our youth directly with policymakers in a manner that will provide genuine opportunities for our youth to acquire civic knowledge and develop the skills necessary to participate fully in a democratic society.

(i) Over 20 other states have statewide youth entities codified into law for the purpose of advising their respective legislatures and governors.

(j) The California Youth Empowerment Commission, as established by this bill, is intended to provide model legislation and advocacy for the needs of youth.

SEC. 2. Chapter 3.4 (commencing with Section 8261) is added to Division 1 of Title 2 of the Government Code, to read:

CHAPTER 3.4. CALIFORNIA YOUTH EMPOWERMENT ACT

- (4) Failure to resolve challenges occurring from inappropriate conduct, unexcused absences, or inability to complete expected duties of a commissioner.

(h) In the event of a vacancy, the alternate will fill the position, and the appointing power that appointed the commissioner shall appoint a new alternate in the same manner as the original appointment within 60 days of the vacancy.

8265. (a) Within six months of the commission’s establishment, and not later than March 1 of each subsequent year, the executive director, appointed pursuant to Section 8274, shall both:
